

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 The invention provides human disease associated protein kinases and polynucleotides (collectively designated DAPK) which identify and encode them. The invention also provides expression vectors, host cells, agonists, antibodies and antagonists. The invention further provides methods for diagnosing and treating disorders associated with expression of human disease associated protein kinases.